

As Seen on VH1's Love + Hip Hop Couples Retreat, Devi Ward Erickson, the Founder of the first and only government accredited professional tantra training institute, helps you create the sustainable sensual connection you are looking for

Vancouver, BC - Recently featured in VH1 Couples Retreat, Devi Ward Erickson is the founder of the only government-accredited tantra center in the world. Founded by women and created by a bi-racial black woman, the Institute for Authentic Tantra Education is committed to making tantric sex education accessible to people of all nationalities and sexual orientations.

Along with the rising interest for alternative and healing practices that support women, men and couples in overcoming challenges in their personal and sexual health, the COVID 19 pandemic has also put our love lives to the test, shining a spotlight on both the strengths and weaknesses of our relationships. Moreover, singles have been forced to navigate finding new connections through online dating or riding out this period on their own.

Rooted in the Tibetan 5 elements, the Authentic Tantra® modality can support individuals or couples who want to create a sustainable sensual connection and return to their true nature, that is of joy, pleasure and excitement. Tantric Healing is simple the process of removing "blocks to bliss" so that our authentic, inherently blissful nature can be reclaimed and restored. The Institute for Authentic Tantra Education offers both personal holistic healing through coaching as well as training programs for those who are seeking a to become certified practitioners in the sexual wellness industry.
